Thence to the finish the neather was so thick that direction could only be determined by compars. During Sunday night the balloon, in a drenching rain, sometimes seemed to be at a complete giandstill. We askended and desended in search of better currents of air, without appreciable results. By 4 o'clock in the morning half of our ballast had been used. last had been used.

Frightened the Peasants. The passage of the Bavarian Alps through rain and clouds was thrilling. Once we swooped down the mountain side with frightful velocity, plunging into a chasm of fog which seemed bottomiess. It was as if the seemed bottomies up. The basket several times crashed through the tree tops. After two hours we emerged from the valley and got a northeasterly slant of wind. When clear of the mountains we, moved at a lively rate. The guide fope dragged over farm houses, breaking tiles and chimneys. The peasants rushed out with cries and imprecations.

Guide Rope Became Unravelled. Guide Rope Became Unravelled.

"We then found that the guide rope had become unravelled and hoisted it into the basket for repairs, which were most difficult, since we were at the same time working hard with the blower to prevent the balloon from rising. A few hours later we recognized several villages and then the town of Konigstadt.

"We signised a balloon to the eastward with peasants hanging on to the guide rope.

SHOULD WAR EVER COME

Our Navy Would Give Good Acceunt of Itself, Says Admiral Dewey-Phases of the Navy Discussed.

Washington, Oct. 7 .- Defending, with characteristic vigor, the American navy, Admiral George Dewey asserted loday that not only is our navy not a bluff." but that he is confident that it would give a good account of itself should war ever come.

An Unfortunate Expression The admiral's remarks were called orth by a statement attributed to former Representative Landis of Indians who in a recent speech at Cincinnati, O., in advocating ship subsidy, is re-ported to have said "that those Amercans who are informed consider our navy a 'bluff,'" The expression was characterized by Admiral Dewey as 'an unfortunate one."

No War Clouds Gathering.

Declaring that he saw no war clouds gathering on the horizon. Admiral Dewey discussed several phases of the navy. He expressed himself as heartily in favor of ship subsidy legislation, and made a strong plea for the continued upbuilding of the navy. He said that a long time ago he used to think the German ships were being built for us. "But I do not now," he added.

Ship Subsidy Wanted.

Referring to the remark attributed to Mr. Landis, Admiral Dewey said that, of course, what the former meant was that the navy would be comparatively useless in time of war without necessary auxiliaries drawn from the merchant marine. The admiral continued: "He wants a subsidy for our ships of commerce, and so do I."

The admiral expressed the belief that subsidy legislation could be secured were it not for the use of the word "subsidy," which, he said, many people did not like because they thought it meant to give something for nothing. Ship Subsidy Wanted.

Merchant Marine Needed.

Merchant Marine Needed.

"But the American navy is not quite so helpless as one might imagine from Mr. Lands' remarks," said the admiral. "We have it colliers and several transports already in the service. Of course this would not be enough in time of war, and I hope that we will continue to add to that number. If we were to have a war we could purchase as many ships as we might need. We did so in the Spanish war. It would, of course, be a great deal better if we had them already."

The admiral declared that the United States needed a merchant marine, not urly for the value it might possess as furnishing auxiliaries to the navy, but to carry the American flag in the marts of the world.

"But," said the admiral, "there will be no war. And so long as we go alread steadily and moderately in adding to our navy, replacing the olderships with the most modern type, thus keeping our navy, abreast of the world, no one will ever be able to say, like Mr Landis that other nations do not regard the American navy seriously."
